The Framework in use

Introduction

In the early years of life, long before a child enters school, behaviours are established that profoundly change that child's life chances for better or worse.

(Reaching Out: An Action Plan on Social Exclusion 2006:10)

Welcome to the Early Years Framework for Inclusion. The Framework is a resource to support the inclusive development of early years and childcare settings including Integrated Children's Centres and schools. In York the Self Review Framework is currently in use by schools and has been endorsed by the Yorkshire and Humberside Regional Partnership. The Framework is a comprehensive document that can help everyone in these settings find their own steps for increasing participation in play and learning of the children in their care. The materials are designed to build on the knowledge and practice of practitioners and to challenge and support the development of any setting.

In the Framework, inclusion is an approach to care, learning and play according to inclusive values rather than a concern with a particular group of children. Inclusion is often seen to be associated with children seen as having special educational needs (SEN). However, the Framework is concerned with increasing the participation of all children, irrespective of age, gender, ethnicity, disability, religion or background.

Within York there are established communities including Chinese, Bangladeshi, Ghurkha and Travellers. In more recent years York has seen an increase of new communities: Turkish, Kurdish and Eastern European. It is therefore important to have a broad approach to inclusion and diversity. Inclusion is important to everyone; each child of each family has a range of different needs to be met. Differences are to be celebrated!

The Framework provides a supportive process of self-review, encouragement and development. It is a practical document, which shows what inclusion can mean for all aspects of the setting. It is a holistic approach that includes children, families, setting staff, multi-agency partners and will promote success of inclusive practice.

In developing the culture of the setting and helping to clarify the purpose of activities the Framework can contribute to lasting improvements.

Background to the Framework

The Early Years Framework for Inclusion has been built around work carried out by the Local Authority (LA), Yorkshire and Humberside Regional Partnerships, Childcare Strategy Service and a range of early years settings within the City of York.

The Yorkshire and Humberside Regional Partnership through working with Local Authorities and Leeds University developed a set of quality standards for inclusion. The Regional Quality Standards for Inclusion are voluntary and have been adopted by many LAs. A decision was made in York that a framework for inclusion aimed at the early years, would be a collaborative development by a working party of professionals and practitioners tailored to meet local need. York Childcare Strategy Service is engaged in the endorsement process provided by the Regional Standards.

The Framework has been developed with due regard to key documents and legislation. The Every Child Matters (ECM) 2003 agenda, the Children Act 2004 and the Early Years Foundation Stage 2008 all promote the ethos of all those working with children having due regard and an obligation to inclusion for all. The continuing promotion of inclusion is paramount in the development of this document.

The Framework is a self-review process aiming to assist practitioners in supporting legislation, inspections and other obligations. With this in mind the Framework has been developed as a working document that will reduce administrative burden, as evidence gathered and documented can be used to support other commitments e.g. Ofsted inspections.

The Framework was piloted by four playgroups and two private day nurseries giving them the opportunity to use the Framework as a working document and trial certain aspects, which provided useful feedback to develop the final document.

The Framework in use

The Framework is made up of five standards and is linked closely with the five outcomes of ECM.

- Stay safe
- Enjoy and achieve
- Make a positive contribution
- Be healthy
- Achieve economic well-being

There are also three dimensions to the Framework.

- Inclusive practices
- Inclusive policies
- Inclusive environments

There is no right or wrong way to use the Framework. It has been designed so that it has equal application in a full range of settings. In York, Shared Foundation Partnerships made up of schools, private day nurseries, pre-school playgroups, childminders and others may like to work together to complete the Framework. Access & Inclusion Support Adviser Debbie Adair from the Childcare Strategy Service with specialist responsibilities, is available to assist in this process.

The Framework should be implemented into planning for the development of the setting as a whole.

How is it done?

The Framework itself contributes to the development of Inclusion. It involves a self review, which includes everyone connected to the setting drawing on their knowledge and experience.

Within each standard there is a series of questions where practitioners can record evidence and demonstrate levels of inclusion in the standard. To record evidence the 'traffic light' system has been introduced:-

- Green – committed fully
- Amber – working towards
- Red – not achieving.

It is not essential to complete every area in each of the standards, and within the Evidence of Success column sign posting can be used to indicate where evidence in documents, policies etc. can be found.

To assist in working through the Framework each page is detachable and may be photocopied each time a review of practice is required. A Discussion Record sheet is included at the end of each standard to assist with planning and recording areas of improvement. The Plan for Action (Part 3 page 37) is used to help identify issues which may assist/hinder progress through the standards.

The framework is

- Supportive – joint working between the LA, Early Years Partnerships, parents and other multi-agency teams.
- Collaborative – not one person's view but a team approach to completion.
- Celebratory – Records all achievements. All areas of progress are important.

What you can hope to achieve

Inclusion has been described by the Government as the 'keystone' of its education policies. A number of Government and local policies have been taken in to account when putting together the Framework.

The Framework will assist you in

- achieving the five outcomes of ECM
- ensuring your setting is inclusive
- meeting legislation obligations
- helping towards inspections
- meeting the needs of families
- providing an ongoing reflection on inclusive practice within your setting updating and reviewing inclusive practice.
